Information Disclosure Statement

Applicant should note that the large number of references in the attached IDS have been considered by the examiner in the same manner as other documents in Office search files are considered by the examiner while conducting a search of the prior art in a proper field of search. See MPEP 609.05(b). Applicant is requested to point out any particular references in the IDS which they believe may be of particular relevance to the instant claimed invention in response to this office action.

Specification

The abstract of the disclosure does not commence on a separate sheet in accordance with 37 CFR 1.52(b)(4). A new abstract of the disclosure is required and must be presented on a separate sheet, apart from any other text.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hollander et al (6,074,089).

Hollander et al disclose a thermocouple measurement circuit (Abstract) comprising a thermocouple input (Figure 3 - "THERMOCOUPLE") for sensing temperature at a measuring point, a compensation circuit for cold junction compensation of the thermocouple effects and an instrument amplifier (110) for summing an output of the thermocouple and the compensation circuit and outputting a voltage indicative of the temperature. The various components and connections for the circuit are clearly disclosed and shown by Hollander et al, in particular in Figures 3 and 10. Hollander et al clearly disclose a filtering circuit to reduce EMI noise (Figure 10C) as well as the use of A-D converters for providing digital outputs.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9-15 and 17-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Strul (5,498,261) in view of the teaching of Hollander et al ('089).

Strul discloses an electrosurgical generator (28 - Figure 3) comprising a RF output and a control circuit (54) for controlling the output of RF energy. Strul also disclose a thermocouple measurement circuit for determining temperature at a measuring point (22), the measurement circuit including a cold junction compensation circuit (58) for compensating for thermocouple effect of junctions. See also figure 7a which shows the compensation circuit in more detail. Strul fails to disclose all the particulars of the compensation circuit, such as the instrument amplifier.

As addressed above, Hollander et al disclose a compensation circuit with the connections as recited in the claims. The examiner maintains that it would have been an obvious modification for one of ordinary skill in the art to have provided the Hollander et al compensation circuit in the Strul system to provide an accurate thermocouple measurement and as an obvious alternative to the Strul compensation circuit used for the same purpose.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 8 and 16 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Sherman et al (5,596,995), Malone et al (5,057,105) and Penny et al (6,629,974) disclose other electrosurgical devices that employ a thermocouple compensation circuit for accurately providing temperature readings from a thermocouple.
